If your pet has never used CBD before, starting with the 'week 1 schedule' is appropriate. If your pet has used CBD in the past and is accustomed to it, then consider starting with 'week 2 and beyond' schedule. If you're experienced using CBD with your pet, you can adjust servings for any given product so they receive the amount you are targeting for them. If you use more than one CBD product for your pet, be sure to adjust your servings so that in total, when combining the various products you may be using, your pet is getting the total amount per day you want. In other words, don't give max daily servings from multiple products in one day or you may be giving your pet more than is needed. Contact us with any questions, we're happy to help. Remember, the FDA has not evaluated any CBD product and it's not meant to treat, diagnose or cure any disease. Consult your veterinarian for all medical issues your pet may have. You are responsible for the health and well being of your pet.
